Memorial Services Honor the Late King's Memory

The memorial service in St. Alban's Church on Sunday for King George V. was attended by a large number of parishioners, additional seats having to be brought in from the parish hall.

A fine tribute to the late King was paid by Rev. A. S. Partington, in which he stated that one of the reasons of his influence was his Christian nature, his regular attendance at divine service and his daily communions with God. In every respect he was a Christian gentleman, and his life's record was one which all might emulate.

Prayers in accordance with the church ritual were read for the Royal Family, and the late Rudyard Kipling's "Recessional," written at the time of the Diamond Jubilee of Queen Victoria in 1897, was one of the special hymns sung.

At the close of the service, the impressive Nunc Dimittis, beginning with the verse, "Lord now lettest Thou Thy servant depart in peace," was sung, followed by a short period of silence, when following the benediction, "Last Post" was sounded by James Lowe, and the service concluded with the national anthem.

Rangers, Girl Guides and ex-service men attended and the service was followed with deep interest and devotion.

ALEX. M. MORRISON IMPROVING IN HEALTH

Mr. Alex. M. Morrison, though able to be around for a short time daily, after several weeks in bed, has not attempted to resume his regular duties. Owing to ill-health he was ordered to stay in bed several weeks before Christmas, but during the holiday season many friends called on him to express their good wishes. It is probable he will dispose of the successful business he built up under the firm name of Sentinel Motors, but will retain his real estate and insurance business. In an interview with The Journal he stated there was no truth in the report he intended to dispose of his interests here and move to the coast. He is one of the pioneer business men of Coleman, a former mayor, and also was postmaster during the days of the Federal Liberal government in earlier years.

Having been an active and progressive advocate for Coleman's interests, the intimation that he has no intention of moving will be welcomed, for he would be greatly missed. That he will quickly regain normal health is the wish of a wide circle of friends throughout the Pass towns.

He has led a very active life, and was a Liberal candidate in the provincial elections of 1921. One of his many offices has been corner for many years.

TIGERS TRIM BELLEVUE

Coleman Tigers won over Bellevue when they met in a benefit game in aid of Jackie Jenkins, injured in a recent game at Bellevue. Tigers held a slight edge throughout the game and quickly went ahead in the first period, when Kanik found the corner of the net in the first five minutes. Bellevue tied the score midway through the second period on a combination play.

Coleman put the game on ice in the third when they scored twice in the first five minutes by goals from Trotz and Pavlus. Bellevue fought back courageously and were rewarded by another goal. Final score 3-2 in Tigers' favor.

They've gone and done it! Yes sir, they've done it. Walking into the arena the other afternoon your reporter was startled to see several young ladies skating like fiends after the puck with their hockey sticks. On inquiring how come, it was learned that Coleman had a ladies' hockey team second to none in the Pass and all they wanted was a chance to prove it. A challenge from any ladies' team in the Pass will be accepted with the greatest pleasure.

Would you invest wisely? Put thoughts and actions out at interest which will build up for you a fortune of personal force.

A mass public service on Tuesday morning at 11 o'clock in the Community hall was attended by all fraternal lodges in town, including the Elks, Slovak Benefit Society, Polish Society, Italian Society, and other organized bodies. Headed by the town council and the Canadian Legion, the procession marched from the town hall, with a detachment of R.C.M.P. and the band leading. Guides, Scouts and Brownies were also in the parade.

The service, presided over by Mr. George Kellock, followed along the lines set forth for Empire observance in keeping with the ritual of the Anglican church. The orchestra under Miss May Powell played a beautiful overture in keeping with the occasion, and also played the hymn accompaniments. John Pietraszko played a violin solo. The Christian character of the late king was stressed by Rev. A. S. Partington in his address, he stating that much of his steady and kindly influence was attributable to his God fearing qualities.

Rev. Roy C. Taylor of St. Paul's church and Lieut. Fitch of the Salvation Army assisted in the service.

On the stage were the town council, Lt.-Col. Barnes representing the military forces of the district, B. Garratt for Canadian Legion, the deputy mayor and council and Girl Guide officers.

IN MEMORIAM

WOOD—In loving memory of Mother, who passed away on Feb. 1, 1934.

"Of in the stillness of the night,
When sleep forsakes our eyes,
Our thoughts are on that lonely grave
Where our dear Mother lies."

"And when our hearts are breaking,
We seem to hear her say:
'Keep up your hearts, my dear ones,
We will meet again some day.'"

Suggests Improvements in Schools

E. O. Duke, M.L.A., Prepares Paper on Centralization of School Districts

E. O. Duke, of Canmore, M.L.A. for Rocky Mountain, forwards an article which he prepared on "The Centralization of Schools." It deals with the proposed new act whereby rural school districts would be organized into larger consolidated districts, and particularly applies to the prairie districts.

Speaking of the districts of the Crows Nest Pass and of the schools in his part of the provincial constituency, he states:

"Regarding the unique position of the school districts in Rocky Mountain constituency, I have the assurance of the deputy minister of education that the centralized system will not apply to us. But no doubt when the system is in operation some plan of centralization of teaching might profitably be employed in each end of our constituency. For instance, one man might be employed who would teach manual arts in the towns of Banff, Exshaw, Canmore and Seebe, and similarly one man could be employed to teach one subject in each town in the Crows Nest Pass schools."

These suggestions are worthy of consideration by all interested in the best methods of imparting knowledge to school pupils and of adopting the best methods of teaching.

It is foolish to keep thinking that your supposed enemy can harm you. Your hours are valuable. Why give him so much of your thought time?

Sport Activities in Full Swing

Macleod Artics Next on Program

A keenly contested game is anticipated for Saturday when Macleod Artics meet Canadians here in a return exhibition game. Those who saw the game Wednesday evening at Macleod between these teams claim the Macleod players are every bit as fast and tricky as Brandon, whose exhibition game here the first of the month provided such a thrill. The game is called for 9.15 p. m.

Exhibition games are now being Cup, 12 rinks competing. The lined up with the Canadians, the strong Ledieu rink came through first of which took place last evening with colors flying when they ning with Macleod. Macleod will trimmed Cousins' rink 18-5. The play the return game here on Saturday score was in the nature of a surrunday evening. Rossland and prise as Cousins' rink won their Kimberley have been definitely way into the final by decisive booked for games according to the scores, but fell down badly in the secretary of the Canadians, these final.

games to take place early in February.

Playoff dates in the senior division were released this week, and we find the winner of the Southern Alberta senior league, presumably Drumheller, coming to Coleman in the first of a three-game series, the next two games to take place in the north.

According to good authority the Canadian Radio Commission will broadcast the provincial Allan Cup playdowns this year. Should Coleman come through as expected in the best methods of imparting their games, Henry Viny, Leth knowledge to school pupils and bridge sports commentator, has been given the assignment to officiate at the "mike" in giving a play-by-play description of the games. As Coleman goes so goes Henry.

A local bonspiel was played at the curling arena for the Morrison Hat, is visiting with friends here this week.

'IS IT TEA is delicious A Crime Invasion

Signs and portents are not lacking that Canada, including the prairie provinces, is to be favored during the coming summer with the presence of a horde of criminals from the United States bent on rapine and slaughter, with the peaceful citizens of this country as their victims.

Indeed, a migratory vermin of the thugs and swindlers of the underworld of our neighbor to the south has already commenced and their unlawful and ruthless activities are already being recorded on the police blotter in some of the cities across the continent north of the 49th parallel.

Recent newspaper reports have noted during bank holdups, safe-blowings and robberies, accompanied in some cases by particularly cold-blooded and unnecessary murders, unnecessary even for the successful prosecution of the unlawful raids on property which are the primary aim of these crime perpetrators.

These undesirable visitors from across the line have made their presence felt in Vancouver, Calgary, Regina, Saskatoon, Winnipeg, Quebec and Toronto and have staged coups, sometimes with the assistance of local craftsmen with whom they have established contact, and in some cases without such aid.

So far this winter these desperadoes have confined their attention to the cities, principally because, in the western provinces at any rate, climatic conditions make criminal forays on the smaller towns and villages impracticable, if not impossible. With the advent of spring and after snow has disappeared and roads and highways become negotiable with ease, it is reasonable to assume that some of them will divert their activities in the direction of the small town merchant, the village post office and perhaps even to an occasional train, unless their nefarious deeds are sternly checked.

The reason for this trend of bandits and thugs, armed and dangerous, and saved-off shot guns, dynamite and nitro-glycerine, crowbars and jimmies is easily explained. They are being driven out like rats from the country which until recently has afforded them a fairly safe domicile and where they have been able to carry on their iniquitous trade with comparative immunity.

The federal government of the United States is tightening up on the robber and the killer. Substantial additions have been made to police and detective appropriations and forces and a campaign to suppress crimes, and especially crimes of violence, is well under way and is being carried out with a greater measure of success than has heretofore attended previous sporadic and isolated efforts in the land of the stars and stripes.

Many of the desperate criminals in the United States who have so far escaped the tightening meshes of the police nets in their own country are becoming fearful of their own safety if they continue their illegal practices in their own land and are seeking pastures more green elsewhere. For geographical reasons alone they are turning their eyes towards Canada and their footsteps in this country. The advance guard is already here and more may be expected to come when weather conditions facilitate mobile transit.

The United States authorities are taking this action because public opinion in that country has made its voice heard. The people have demanded that steps be taken, if not to rid the country of serious crime, at least to reduce it to reasonable proportions. Hence, the drive now in progress. Unless, however, the people of this country are to inherit an unwanted legacy from the States, they, too, must make it known to the authorities that they stand four square behind every effort that can be made to repel an undesirable invasion.

The people and the federal authorities of the U.S.A. are to be commended for the effective campaign they are belatedly waging to rid themselves of a serious blotch on their social and economic life, but the people and authorities of this country must co-operate to see to it that the discarded sapling is not grafted on to our own tree.

The people of Canada do not want these visiting "gentlemen". They have no desire to afford them harborage. They have no wish to permit them to rob and slay innocent citizens, nor to allow them to establish schools for crime with their own criminals and potential pupils. For that will be the ultimate outcome if these people are treated with complacency and tolerance. Unfortunately, this country has enough lawless without importing more from outside.

Mayor G. C. McGeer of Vancouver, who visualizes this menace, declared recently that the police forces of this country are not adequately equipped to handle effectively such a dangerous invasion, stating in effect, that it is hopeless to cope with 20th century criminals with 19th century equipment.

If Mayor McGeer's inference is well founded it is time to be strengthening the defences. The governments of the country and the provinces will be well advised to spend the necessary money to bring police equipment up to date and to modernize their methods of securing information and of tracking down these foes of society.

Dangerous criminals as have interested Chicago and other American cities are not wanted in Canada. They should be caught as soon as they commence operations in this country. Once caught and the proper evidence produced to convict them, the Bench can be relied upon to deal with them effectively, in accord with the renowned tenets of British justice.

"Aye, well, tak' a guid look at it," came the unexpected warning "for it's no likely ye'll ever see it again."

Dictionary Of Colors

Presents History Of Each And Gives Correct Name
A dictionary of colors has recently been published by the British Colour Council. It consists of two volumes—one containing 200 silk ribbons each distinctly colored, named and tabulated; and the other presenting a history of each color, including the names which have been used in the past, and giving the authority for the present standardization. While the primary purpose of the dictionary is to supply industry with a standard reference for colors, the work is expected to give valuable aid to artists and writers through its accurate and accurate vocabulary for the description of shades and tints.

Colors have been "scientifically measured" and graded, making possible the inclusion of new shades, which should they be developed in the future, into a definite and orderly system.

Imagery, history and industry have combined to find names, some of the words having a fascination and delight of their own. Taken at random from the pages are Cyclamen pink, nettle grey, battleship grey, bee-eater blue, Chartreuse green, buttercup and banana.

First, they listed colors which could be matched with definitely existing standards, such as Wedgewood blue or post office red; second, those matched by the average of a number of samples whether animal, vegetable or mineral, such as squirrel, carrot or sapphire; and finally, those whose exact duplication is widely argued, according to individual opinion as to feeling for color, such as sky blue, Saxe blue or old rose.

The third class was by far the most difficult to standardize, because in many cases the original names were used hundreds of years ago, were applied in time to many shades and finally came to lose their original significance entirely.

For sky blue, for instance, 80 different specimens were received; for white there were 60 different samples, and for black there were 40. It was in the classification of these variations that ingenuity had to be developed. Misunderstandings and conflicts over many colors have now largely ceased. Any industrial product's color may be matched with a silk ribbon, and no industry can claim possession of distinct shades.

All Criminals Dread Chief-Inspector Of Scotland Yard

After 36 years' service, the only man at Scotland Yard who knows the history of every one of the scores of gruesome crimes filed in the "Black Museum" is retiring from the London Metropolitan Police. He is Chief-Inspector Ralph Rowe, head of the Criminal Records Office, the most dreaded of all Scotland Yard's departments by the habitual criminal. His department files the records of over 600,000 criminals, and it is said at the "Yard" that Rowe knows them all by heart. Although by profession a "chief-taker," he has done much to set criminals on the right road after they have served their sentences.

Alberta's Fur Market

First Annual Sale In Five Years

Attracts Buyers
Fur trade going to Edmonton this year promises to equal that of 1935, both in volume and quality, according to dealers.

The first annual sale held for five years concluded with total sales of $100,000 worth of pelts of various kinds. Buyers were present from Milan, Italy, Vancouver, London, Montreal, Seattle, Toronto, New York and Winnipeg.

Among offerings disposed of was a consignment of $16,000 of weasel pelts. A large shipment of mink was snapped up by buyers. Prices prevailing at the auction compared favorably with those on the Winnipeg market.

The total value of furs bought in Alberta for shipment last year amounted to $2,600,000 and it is expected that this sum will be equaled this year by the end of the season.

Commendation of the quality of furs was expressed by Ricardo Bergmann and Joseph Milstein, of Milan, Italy, who represent one of the largest wholesale fur houses in southern Europe. The Italians made several large purchases, particularly of wolf pelts.

Question Is Answered

Station Hand In Australia Proves Reptiles Eat Reptiles

Do reptiles eat reptiles? The problem has just been answered in tropical North Australia at least. A report by Austral News from Darwin states that one of the blacks on a large cattle station went into the bush to secure some choice food and returned with a large iguana or "goanna" lizard, 4 1/2 feet long. A station hand noticed something protruding from the lizard's mouth, gave it a tug and pulled out a snake as long as his lizard itself. The snake, incidentally, had partly consumed a large centipede. Evidently, during the meal the "goanna" had seized the snake unawares.

Royal Bank Of Canada 67th Annual Meeting

Morris W. Wilson, President and Managing Director, Sees Upward Trend of Business Definitely Established

Sydney G. Dobson, General Manager, Reports $50,000,000 Increase in Deposits For Second Year in Succession

Basis for optimism for the immediate future is to be found in the accomplishments of the past two years, stated Mr. Morris W. Wilson, President and Managing Director, in the course of his address at the 67th Annual Meeting of the Royal Bank of Canada.

"In every province of Canada," said Mr. Wilson, "the improvement in conditions has reduced unemployment and created increased purchasing power. To the farmers of the west, there is an almost immeasurable difference between a price of 40c and 90c for wheat and there is every prospect that by the end of the crop year, the carryover will be materially reduced. In the cities, the burdens and stresses due to unemployment have been reduced by an expansion in all lines of manufacturing. In fact, in recent months the volume of manufacturing has exceeded that in the normal base year 1926."

Marked expansion in the automobile and electrical industries, the chemical industry, in the demand for textiles and boots, were also noted by Mr. Wilson, who remarked that the sustained activity in the mining industry during the depression and its expansion in 1934-1935 have been outstanding elements in Canadian recovery.

Mineral
"The payrolls of that industry," said Mr. Wilson, "provided generous wages at a time when many of those employed in other industries were out of work. Without the expenditures of the mining industry for supplies, machinery and other items, the depression in Canada would have been far more severe. In spite of low prices and the low level of demand for building materials, the total volume of mineral production in 1935 again amounted to more than $300,000,000. The volume of gold production attained a new high record of $115,000,000. I am of the opinion that the great period in Canadian mineral production is in the future."

Unemployment
"While employment has shown some improvement during the past year, unemployment is still a major problem. Relief expenditures constituted a large drain upon the resources of many local communities. While recognizing fully our social obligations, I fear that these expenditures have not always been made with due regard to the public interest. The promised survey by the Dominion government is awaited with great interest."

Sanctity of Contracts

Referring to the reputation last year by one of the Provinces of important long-term power contracts, Mr. Wilson said: "The alleged ground was that of illegality, but it is noteworthy that discrediting all ordinary canons of British justice, the aggrieved investors have been denied second appeals to press their claims. Moral considerations aside—and these are not to be lightly regarded—the policy of repudiating contracts that may have become burdensome because of changed conditions strikes at the very root of all social and economic life. Stand in its lowest terms, moreover, repudiation does not pay. In the past we have made heavy sacrifices to build up and maintain our credit abroad. Unless some means can be found to remove the stain, this inability to pay is permanent blot upon the fair name of our country."

Provincial Finances

"The financial position of some of our provinces has been the subject of a growing discussion during recent months. Economic conditions in Western Canada, and abnormally heavy expenditures for relief resulting therefrom, have necessitated large advances from the Dominion government. It was inevitable that sooner or later the question of control by the Federal Government over the finances of these provinces should be brought up, particularly in view of suggestions put forward that the Federal Government, by lending its credit, should assist in the general refunding of provincial debts so as to reduce the interest charge and thereby assist in balancing the budgets of these provinces. Such assistance by the Federal Government could only be justified if there were set up effective safeguards against excessive borrowings by provinces in the future, a matter which would involve an amendment to our constitution. If these safeguards, however, I believe that some such plan would merit and receive the support of public opinion in Canada."

Foreign Trade

"Seven-eighths of our total foreign trade in the past three years has been with the British Empire and the United States. The present upward trend in business activity is associated with a rising demand for Canadian goods in the Empire markets. In the twelve months ending in November 1935 Canadian exports to the Empire exceeded those of the same months of the previous two years by $25 million and $108 million respectively. Exports to the United States showed corresponding gains of $54 million and $100 million. Figures show that as yet Canada is not benefiting by any gains in general world buying power, but rather from the recovery which is under way in Great Britain and the United States. It would seem that the United States has been the most secured factor in the recovery, with her two best customers. While the agreement with the United States of recent months has a few days, in view of the gain of $100 million over the past two years, in 1935 further gains in exports to the United States during 1936 is justified.

Summary
"I would not feel justified in closing my remarks without emphasizing that many serious problems still confront us."

"But neither can I close on a pessimistic note. The Canadian people have faced—and I sincerely believe they have conquered—the depression. At this stage we must not permit frightened or discouraged by the trials of recent months, those who now urge default, repudiation or compromise as a solution of our problem are false prophets who have not correctly read the signs of the times. The Canadian people are made of sterner stuff. The upward trend in business would now seem to be definitely established. In fact, I believe we may look forward to the coming year with a greater optimism than has been possible at any time in the past six years."

General Manager's Address

Mr. S. G. Dobson, general manager, referred to the financial statement, as follows:

"The 67th Annual Report and Balance Sheet reflect continuance of the upturn of business which began in 1933, and which has progressed with an increasing momentum since that time. Totals under practically all headings are again higher, indicating a more rapid and continuous growth of the bank."

"A year ago we reported an increase of $50,000,000 in deposits. This year we are able to report a further increase of over $50,000,000, or a total of over $100,000,000 in two years—an increase of over $100,000,000 in deposits in Canada again increased in all provinces, savings deposits in the United States increased by $65,000,000 to $126,000,000."

Assets $42,000,000
"Total assets during the year in Canada increased $42,000,000, the new $80,919,700, the highest point reached since 1931. Quoted assets stand at $42,673,881, or 68.72% of total liabilities."

"Call Loans in Canada increased $2,988,034, while Call Loans outside Canada increased $1,689,000. "Current Loans in Canada have increased by $300,000 and similar advances abroad by $2,573,809. While there has been a considerable improvement in business conditions, so far recovery has not increased appreciably the demand for bank accommodation."

"Our senior executive organization was recently enlarged by the appointment of three Assistant General Managers, namely, Burnham L. Mitchell, James Muir and Harold G. Heister. Mr. Mitchell will continue to supervise Ontario business with headquarters in Toronto, and Mr. Muir and Mr. Heister will, as heretofore, be attached to Head Office. All three are highly trained bankers of wide experience, who have spent their business lifetime in the service of the bank."

"At the last annual meeting, I ventured to state that we had every justification for looking forward to improved conditions during 1935. This expectation was realized perhaps to even greater extent than we had hoped for at that time. The outlook is still favorable, and as a result, there is no reason why we should not enter 1936 with a feeling of optimism."

Punishment Fits Crime

Caught Ill-treating his horse, a young driver was made to pay the penalty in Cologne, Germany. An indignant passer-by attached to the youth's neck a board bearing the message, "I am a horse-torturer", put him in the shafts and forced him to pull his own cart through the streets.

New Deal Policies Of Roosevelt May Split Democratic Party

Washington.—A schism in Democratic ranks—how great only the future can tell—was predicted following a searing denunciation of new deal policies by Alfred E. "Al" Smith, Saturday night.

There were only two resources open to democratic "disciples" of Jefferson and Jackson and Cleveland," Smith told a cheering American Liberty League audience. "We can either take on the mantle of hypocrisy or we can take a walk—and we probably will do the latter."

The former New York governor charged President Roosevelt and his Democratic followers with faithlessness to the platform upon which they were elected. He shouted that new Roosevelt policies were repudiated at the Democratic convention next June, he would "take a walk" during the campaign leading up to the general elections in November.

The words fell upon the eager ears of foremost members of both major parties, some of whom had been asking whether Smith, the "appy warrior" of 1928, might not join an independent party movement at the expense of the new deal or possibly support a Republican nominee. They found he left unanswered whether or how he might seek between now and June to bring about the "re-establishment" of the Democratic principles he advocated.

Class warfare and bureaucratic domination of the citizenry impend, he warned, should the present "socialist" federal course be continued.

"There can be only one capital—Washington or Moscow," he continued with a vigor that flushed his already ruddy cheeks. "The people can breathe the clear, fresh air of America or the foul breath of Soviet Russia."

New deal bitterness over the barbed attack was immediately heard in the capital. Generally, those of opposite view dubbed Smith's speech as "demagogic."

Senator Joe Robinson of Arkansas, Democratic leader in the upper chamber, prepared to go on the air to reply to Al's sweeping charges. Time and again Smith reverted to the Democratic platform of 1932 which he helped draft. Except for stock exchange control and repeal of prohibition, he said, it has been "thrown in the wastebasket."

Senator Byrnes of South Carolina, an administration leader, expressed regret that Smith "can't forget his defeat at the Chicago convention" of 1932.

At Chicago Smith sought to prevent the Roosevelt nomination. There has been speculation ever since he called the Roosevelt monetary policy one of "bolony dollars" whether he would again seek the presidential nomination.

"I am not a candidate for any nomination by any party," Smith said, "and what is more I do not intend to lift my right hand to secure any nomination."

Socialism was now being substituted for Democracy, he said, "and that is why the supreme court is throwing out recent laws, three letters at a time."

THE EMPIRE MOURNS

The bells of Britain toll tonight. Toll for the passing of the king; And as the message takes its flight, The Empire bells are echoing Around the world the solemn strain, A requiem for a noble reign.

—J. Lewis Milligan.

The late King George will live in history as a king who led his empire in dark days; but still more as a king who came closer than any other monarch to the hearts of his subjects, was the tribute paid to the memory of the deceased monarch by Lord Tweedsmuir, Canada's governor-general. The full text of His Excellency's tribute follows:

"King George is mourned as the centre of the loyalties of a great empire. But in this hour of universal sorrow, I think of him chiefly as my beloved master and friend. He dignified the throne which he inherited by his courage and faithfulness, and he endeared it to his subjects by the warmth of his sympathy. He was a friend of all, rich and poor alike, sharing to the full in their joys and sorrow. The plain man saw in him one who understood him and whom he turned to understand. He will live in history as a king who led his empire in dark days, but still more as a king who came closer than any other monarch to the hearts of his subjects. He would wish for no better epitaph than that he feared God and loved and served his people."

Prime Minister Mackenzie King joined with all Canada in expression of tribute to "the greatest and noblest of King Georges," and in voicing the "sense of personal loss and personal sorrow which is felt without distinction of race or creed or class in the hearts of all Canadians."

Mr. King gave out the following statement:

It is less than a year since all parts of the British empire paid their tributes, amid rejoicing, to the greatness and the goodness of King George V. To-day, these tributes are a part of the world's sorrow. King George's silver jubilee served to throw into relief both the characteristics of the last quarter of a century, and the character of his late majesty himself. In that period of time—one of the Georgian eras—the world witnessed and humanity endured more of unrest, of suffering, of anguish, and of change than had ever heretofore been known. Amid those difficult and dangerous years, that epoch of strife and insecurity, the British commonwealth of nations had in his late majesty a sovereign who faced every situation with calmness, with confidence, and with courage.

It would be difficult to estimate how much British peoples, and, indeed, the entire world, owed, and will continue to owe to King George's personality and personal example, to his steadfastness, his understanding, his fidelity, and his sagacity.

In the Great War, his late majesty, in virtue of his high office, stood as the symbol of the common effort and concerted action of all parts of the British commonwealth of nations. In the difficult post-war period of reconstruction, when governments came and went, and many constitutional changes were effected, his late majesty again, in virtue of his understanding and wisdom, his steadfastness and composure, and his high office as head of the state, stood as the embodiment of an unwavering constitutional authority in Great Britain and beyond the seas.

In war and peace alike, King George exemplified upon all occasions his never-failing sense of duty and his broad democratic sympathies. Having regard to the times and to the issues he and his ministers were called upon to face, it can truly be said, there never was a better king.

This man was king in England's darkest hour. In the black-battled years when hope was gone, His courage was a flag, men rallied on; His steadfast spirit showed him king indeed. And when the war was ended, when Of revolution took its hideous place; His courage and his kindness and his grace Scattered (or charmed) its ministers to naught. No king of all our many, has been proved By time so savage to the thrones of kings; Nor won more simple triumph over fate. He was most royal among royal things, Most thoughtful for the meanness in his state; The best, the gentlest and the most beloved.

—John Macfield.

Dominion Statutes Designed To Correct Social Injustices

Ottawa.—Newton W. Rowell told six judges of the supreme court to keep their eyes open to general economic conditions in Canada when considering validity of three Dominion statutes designed to correct social injustices in the country.

"One cannot shut one's eyes to what is going on," the Dominion counsel told the court when arguing the laws establishing a 48-hour industrial week, minimum wages and one day's rest in seven, were valid.

There comes a time, the veteran lawyer said, when local conditions emerge as national problems and are transported from provincial to federal jurisdiction under the British North America Act. "We are facing a condition to-day in Canada and other countries that is entirely different from 30 or 40 years ago."

The B.N.A. act was drafted in 1867 but must be interpreted in the light of present conditions, Mr. Rowell submitted. In Canada to-day there were patent social injustices which affected the country as a whole and, beyond that, international relations. "One should not predict, but my prediction would be that unless we have very radical changes in the next four or five years, unless young men and women going out from our colleges can find work, we face conditions of social unrest and social upheaval in this country."

Mr. Rowell introduced the subject of royal prerogatives and their extent in Canada in arguing three Dominion laws based on Geneva labor conventions were valid. He traced the royal prerogative from days when the king was absolute until today his discretionary powers have almost disappeared.

In Canada, said Mr. Rowell, the king's prerogatives, for instance the pardoning of criminals, is exercised by cabinet. In effect, since the statute of Westminster, all prerogatives of the king are exercised by the cabinet who are responsible to parliament and the people. Prerogative powers no longer are the property of the king, but the privilege of the government of the day.

Mr. Rowell contended the Dominion cabinet could ratify a treaty without consulting parliament merely by exercising the royal prerogative. Earlier in Canadian history, Canada was bound by English treaties, but for many years it conducted its own foreign negotiations. But to conform to the royal prerogative treaties are signed in the name of the king.

Mr. Rowell read the 1926 Imperial conference resolutions which referred to Dominions as "autonomous communities, equal in status, though united by a common allegiance to the crown."

Chief Justice Duff said this showed clearly they could not be called independent nations.

Mr. Rowell agreed, but insisted each Dominion was supreme in negotiating treaties, and in all aspects of foreign relations.

Rowell told Justice Crockett, in his opinion, the United Kingdom government could not advise Canada on the amendment of the British North America Act. Its constitutional field ended with its own domain. The final recognition of Canada's control over foreign affairs was establishment of legations in Washington and Tokyo, Mr. Rowell asserted.

Federal Responsibility

Alberta Taxation Inquiry Board Makes Report

Edmonton.—Federal responsibility for all unemployment relief and old age pensions, revised at larger revenues; and consideration of a provincial wage tax and of a general sales tax are urged upon the Alberta government in the report of the Alberta taxation inquiry board, it was revealed by Premier Aberhart.

The report, completed in December, was presented to the cabinet. It will be studied in the next few weeks by the government, Mr. Aberhart said, and copies will be handed to each member of the legislature.

Will Visit Western Canada

Regina.—Reports from Ottawa, according to the Windsor Daily Star, are that Lord Tweedsmuir, the governor-general, will likely visit western Canada this summer. It is said that His Excellency will spend several days in the drought country of southern Saskatchewan. No particular dates are mentioned for the governor-general's tour.

Banned From U.S.

"Black Eagle," Arriving From France, Refused Admittance

New York.—The announced plans of Col. Hubert Pauntier, Julian Harten's "Black Eagle," to prepare for assassination by making arrangements for his own funeral were gunned up when the government ordered him banned from the United States.

A special board of inquiry at Ellis Island decided that Julian had attempted to enter the United States from France without a proper visa.

When he arrived from France, Julian said he expected to be assassinated "any day now" because of nasty things he had said about Hitler.

Western Fair Dates

Winnipeg.—Dates of western Canada's summer exhibitions were set at a meeting of exhibition managers here. They follow: Brandon, June 29 to July 3; Calgary, July 6-11; Edmonton, July 13-15; Saskatoon, July 20-23; Regina, July 27 to Aug. 1.

Labor Laws Question Before Supreme Court For Consideration

Ottawa.—The supreme court gave consideration to the constitutional question whether parliament has power to discharge legislative obligations contracted by ratification of an international labor organization treaty or convention. It has never been decided in Canada before.

The question arose in the constitutional reference of eight Dominion new deal statutes passed in 1934 and 1935. Three of them established the 48-hour industrial week, minimum wages and one day's rest in seven. The Dominion claims each law is valid because it arose through a draft convention of the labor organization and under section 132 of the British North America Act, parliament has power to discharge treaty obligations.

Seven of the nine provinces are ready to attack the Dominion's claim. They insist each law covers provincial matters as determined by the B.N.A. act and the Dominion cannot gain control simply by sending delegates to Geneva and signing a treaty.

N. W. Rowell, Toronto, presented the Dominion's argument, consisting mostly of readings from the Treaty of Versailles and explaining the set-up of the labor organization.

Mr. Rowell claimed labor laws had become national, rather than provincial in scope because of the growth of industrial problems in recent years. He referred to the first international labor agreement signed in 1906 and dealing with phosphorus matches. It was ratified in 1914 by Canada after an unsuccessful bill was introduced in parliament in 1910.

The 48-hour convention was adopted by the labor organization in 1919, the minimum wage convention in 1928 and the convention covering one day's rest in seven, in 1921. Mr. Rowell said one reason why Canada did not ratify them until years later was because of the reluctance of Canadian manufacturers to see Canada bound when American manufacturers were not.

Although the provinces, who argue the three laws are unconstitutional, may dispute his law, Mr. Rowell, a veteran parliamentarian and former cabinet minister, gave his opinion the Canadian parliament need not ratify a treaty to make it binding on the country. He claimed that under the constitution, as amended by the 1926 imperial conference, an order-in-council was all that was necessary to ratify a treaty or international agreement.

Railway Board Sitings

Western Itinerary Will Open At Fernie, B.C., February 20

Ottawa.—An itinerary for public sitings of the board of railway commissioners at six important centres of western Canada has been announced. Opening at, Fernie, B.C., on Feb. 20, the board will hold further hearings as follows: Vancouver, Feb. 24; Edmonton, Feb. 28; Calgary, March 2; Brandon, March 4, and Winnipeg, March 5.

Chief Commissioner Guthrie and Commissioners Stone and Stoneman will preside at all the hearings, while Commissioner Norris will go west later in time to sit with the board's commissioners at Brandon and Winnipeg.

Oppose Legislation

Four Provinces Attack Validity Of Federal Statute

Ottawa.—New Brunswick and Ontario Columbia joined Quebec and British Columbia in attacking the validity of the federal statute establishing a trade and industry commission.

Chief Justice Duff and the five other judges took oaths of allegiance to King Edward. The court adjourned in tribute to King George.

J. W. Farris representing British Columbia, expressed alarm at recent court judgment which broadened the powers of the Dominion at expense of the provinces. D. V. White, representing New Brunswick, said his province stood on the same ground as Quebec in opposing the act.

Canadian Red Cross

Unit Moving Into Fighting Zone In Ethiopia

Toronto.—Dr. R. V. Bingham, of the Sudan interior mission headquarters here, received a cable advising him a Red Cross unit supervised by Dr. Ralph Hooper, of Toronto, was moving into the southern fighting zone in Ethiopia.

Dr. Hooper's unit includes three other Canadians and a number of Ethiopian assistants. Dr. Hooper, his wife and daughter and the Canadian members of the unit left here in November for Ethiopia. Mrs. Hooper, in charge of the leper hospital at Addis Ababa, and her daughter, are not accompanying the doctor into the fighting area.

The unit was bombed in December, but there were no casualties. The bombs damaged equipment, however.

Constitutional Violations

General British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden characterized as "extremely grave" accusations of constitutional violations against the senate of the Free City of Danzig, under the guarantee of the League of Nations. The senate is chiefly accused of refusing to abolish decrees which the council had previously declared unconstitutional, including those removing the right of free speech and freedom of the press.

Should Be Self-Supporting

Hamilton, Ont.—S. J. Hangerford, president of the Canadian National Railways, addressing the annual dinner of the Canadian Construction Association here, urged the association to devote its energies to support of construction projects that would be self-supporting.

Noted Singer Dead

Dame Clara Butt Made First Appearance Before Royalty

Oxford, England.—Dame Clara Butt, British contralto, died Jan. 23. She was nearly 53 years old. She was educated at the Royal College of Music, and made her debut in a students' performance of "Orfeo" in 1892 before members of the royal family.

Born in Southwick, Sussex, England, February 1, 1873, Clara Butt "discovered" her voice when she was only 12. She won a scholarship at Bristol, where she sang at "penny concerts" and small gatherings. The scholarship gave her three years' training at the Royal College of Music in London.

A great singer and a great personality was one of the tributes paid to her. Her contralto voice was considered by most music critics singularly wide in range and strong in tone. Ballad and oratorio singing became her forte.

Creates Precedent

Message Of King Edward VIII. Departs From Custom

London.—King Edward VIII, the first British sovereign to fly by aeroplane, has created another precedent.

His message to parliament, in which he said, "I am resolved to follow in the way he (King George) has set before me," was framed in the first person.

Hitherto such messages have been in the third person; for instance, the message from the late King George when he acceded in 1910: "The king knows," etc.

U. F. A. Decides To Continue To Remain In Politics

Edmonton.—The United Farmers of Alberta will remain in politics. A resolution calling for the "U.F.A. to cease all direct political activity" was voted down at the annual convention here.

There were but 15 votes recorded for the "cease action" resolution in the men's section, while the United Farm Women of Alberta, meeting in separate session, turned it down unanimously.

Defeat of the resolution means that the farmers' association, whose government of 14 years' standing was swept from office by the Social Credit party last August, will continue political action as an autonomous organization in the federation of the Co-operative Commonwealth Federation.

"All talk of going out of politics is utter nonsense," William Irvine, the Wetaskiwin, a former member of parliament, told the delegates.

"The first request that you go out of politics came from our enemies. The question must be settled now."

Another delegate, A. Taylor, of Stettler, forecast a short life for the Social Credit regime of William Aberhart.

"It is necessary for us to begin organization right now," I don't think the new government will last two years," he declared.

NOTES AND COMMENTS

INSPIRATION, Imagination, Action—three essentials if you wish to progress. The combined efforts of Coleman's business men should make this a banner year for the town. The opportunity is their's, waiting to be taken advantage of. A chain is no stronger than its weakest link, therefore co-operation is necessary, and collective action is the best way to achieve worth-while results. There is no truer slogan than "Eternal vigilance is the price of success."

COLEMAN'S favorable industrial condition is envied by other towns in the province, but to sink into an atmosphere of self-contentment because of it would be fatal to progress. Local business men must take the lead in community development and progress, and there is a big field to be cultivated right here.

EVERY PAY DAY a collection is made for the people stranded in Corbin, now no more than a ghost town. It is a tragic situation for people who have nowhere else to go, a situation hastened by radical leadership. What the ultimate fate of the town may be no one knows, but certain it is that there are no means of livelihood for those who remain and their only source of securing the bare necessities is by charity or government assistance. The problem of a particular industry supporting those whose lives are spent in its employ remains unsolved. The coal industry in all countries is faced with this problem to a greater extent than most other industries, and the miners' demands in Great Britain again illustrate the point. Wiser than a Solomon would be he who could solve the eternal problem.

BLAIRMORE is again in the throes of an acute controversy. Mayor Bill Knight, elected by radical United Front workers, is now the target of their determined hostility. He is experiencing the hostility and ingratitude which most men in public life receive as their reward. Like a pack of snarling dogs, those who formerly regarded him as the "kingfish" are now yapping for his scalp. Such is the price of the mayoralty and the reward in a small town as well as a big city. "What price Democracy?" may well be asked.

TO-MORROW NIGHT [Friday] is the time for the annual meeting of the ratepayers of the town and the school district. Financial statements of both for 1935 were published in last week's Journal, and doubtless have been carefully perused by all citizens interested in the administration of their affairs. Questions are often asked at these meetings which ratepayers might inform themselves on beforehand, and it was noticed in one local paper that if there were any particular questions concerning the financial statement, on which ratepayers might desire explanation, they should go to the town office some time before the meeting and thereby receive a more lucid explanation than a hurried reply at a meeting. It is a fact that some ask questions in a none too friendly attitude and heated controversy arises and things are said which instead of promoting harmony in the administration of local affairs cause antagonism to develop. Of course, it is the dearly prized right of ratepayers to ask questions, but it should also be remembered that those who serve do so with the best interests at heart of those who elect them, and their only reward is the satisfaction of having tried to fulfil the responsibilities pertaining to their offices. An essential of self government is co-operation, and if criticism must be made, those making it should take particular care that it is done with honesty of purpose at heart, and not to embarrass the object of their criticism.

SOCIAL CREDITORS will have a daily newspaper. The Morning Albertan, though still carrying at the mast-head the name of George M. Bell as owner, will eventually pass into the control of the new political party. Shares are now being offered for sale to the public at $25 each, and doubtless many supporters of the new gospel will purchase them. Most newspapers will welcome the fact that the party has a paper of its own. Its sponsors and editors will be enabled to enjoy unrestricted sway in publishing all that is favorable to Social Credit and the government, and doubtless it will enjoy a liberal patronage from that source. But there is this to be remembered—that newspapers which present only one viewpoint do not best serve the public whose political opinions are as varied as the colors of the rainbow. A newspaper to be an influential factor in reflecting and moulding public opinion must have a viewpoint, it is true; but if this is the sole aim of its existence, it becomes merely a propagandist sheet, and lessens its value in the bigger field which a daily newspaper tries to serve. Aside from this, we wish the paper well under its new policy, for if the benefits promised under Social Credit are possible, any medium which will help to bring them into being should be welcomed.

COLEMAN TO SEE LIVELY COMEDY

On Monday, February 10th, the Edward Harvey Productions, well known theatrical company which is at present on tour in Western Canada, will present at the Community Hall the scintillating comedy "Bachelor Husband." This three-act play by Edgar Harris has been very well received by audiences both in England and in this country and the Ladies' Auxiliary of St. Paul's United Church, who are sponsoring the performance here, are to be congratulated upon securing such an excellent attraction between its engagements at the Grand Theatre in Calgary and the Majestic in Lethbridge.

Mr. Harvey, the producer, who will be remembered by theatregoers as a member of the Maurice Colbourne - Barry Jones Company, which has made several Canadian tours. He himself brought to the West some years ago his own production of the famous war play, "Journey's End," by R. C. Sheriff.

PUBLISHER OF DRUMHELLER MAIL PRESIDENT OF PRESS ASS'N

At the closing session of the annual convention of the Alberta branch of the Canadian Weekly Newspapers Association, held at the Macdonald Hotel, Edmonton, Mr. G. C. Duncan, proprietor and publisher of The Mail, Drumheller, was elected president for the current year, succeeding Mr. H. G. Thunnell, of the Viking News.

Other officers elected were: H. T. Halliwell (Coleman Journal), first vice-president; F. P. Galbraith (Red Deer Advocate), second vice-president; H. G. McCrae (Hanna Herald), secretary-treasurer (re-elected). The following comprise the executive: Messrs. R. C. Jessup (Macleod Gazette), C. L. Dunford (Sylvan Lake News), Henry Ford (Lacombe Globe), A. R. Ennis (Leduc Representative), and A. J. Allnutt (Alliance Times).

McCre Awarded
In appreciation of Secretary McCre's services during the year, the convention carried a resolution of recognition with which was coupled a fitting honorarium.

Chas. Barber, Chilliwack, B.C., president of the national body, discussed work of that organization at the closing session, besides ways and means of increasing membership.

Tribute to Colin G. Groff, former Alberta publicity commissioner, which office he held for eight years, for the services he gave the province, was expressed in another resolution.

The secretary pointed out that there had been no thought of patronage in Mr. Groff's work. All government advertising had been distributed on a fair basis to weeklies, according to their circulation.

LOCAL AND GENERAL

From Frank Celli, of Creston, B.C., comes a welcome note with a renewal subscription. He will be remembered as owner of the Palm Confectionery, and by the terrific grip he had when he shook hands, as powerful as that of a wrestler. He has just returned from a visit to Vancouver. Many from Coleman have visited his fruit ranch at Creston, where a warm welcome is always extended, with a visit to his famous wine cellar.

Anyone can go through a day courageous and unafraid who holds this thought in mind: The forces that are for me are greater than any that can be against me.

FOURTEEN MISTAKES OF LIFE

To attempt to set your own standards of right and wrong, and expect everybody to conform to them.

To try to measure the enjoyment of others by your own.

To expect uniformity of opinion in this world.

To look for judgment and experience in youth.

To endeavor to mould all dispositions alike.

Not to yield in unimportant trifles.

To look for perfection in your own actions.

To worry ourselves and others about what cannot be remedied.

Not to alleviate, if we can, all that needs alleviation.

To consider anything impossible which we ourselves cannot perform.

To believe only what the finite mind can grasp.

To live as if the moment, the time, the day were so important that it would live forever.

To estimate people by some outside quality, for it is that within which makes the man.

—Summerside Journal.

SENTENCE STIMULANTS

He who begins his day by being friendly closes it thinking, "What a friendly world this is!"

The man who thwarts my plans may not be my enemy. He may be as zealous for truth as I and merely be approaching from another direction when we collide.

Strange as it seems, there are still living those who think they can force folks into liking them and doing things their way by stinging them. They may be busy bees themselves but they are exercising the wrong end of their anatomy for good results.

SENTENCE STIMULANTS

"Helpers on earth, I sent them
Each on his radiant way:
Doers of deeds and dreamers of dreams
To hasten the world's new day."
—Anon.

He who shall introduce into public affairs the principles of primitive Christianity will change the face of the world. — Benjamin Franklin.

You may not like what life hands you, but by determining to make the best of it you can find more good in it than as though you didn't exercise whatever of choice and decision has been left to you.

A blacksmith first thinks of the shape he wants the iron to be. He then works up some heat about the idea and the material. He then proceeds to hammer the material into shape. Building a life is something like that.

God may have decided in advance what your destiny will be. But when you strive to live so as to distinguish clearly the guidance of the inner voice you are probably saving yourself many uncomfortable and unnecessary detours.

If the Townsend Plan or something similar goes through how will the world progress without the budding genius which so often flowers soon after sixty? But then, if they are paid well for not working, the oldsters may be generous with free advice.

Some wait for a pull, for sudden riches or a special opportunity. Others realize that they have within untapped riches which can create opportunity and push which needs no pull. The great are not all dead. Many are unknown—even to themselves.

Jacob A. Riis was greatly disturbed by a dirty tenement in the city of his childhood known as Rag Hall. He determined at 12 years of age to do something about such dwellings if he ever grew up. That one determination for good will bless thousands for centuries to come.

Consider the other man's error and misjudgments with charity and indulgence. Hold yourself to a strict accountability. Of course if you have so far misrepresented yourself as to have doubts of ever amounting to anything, then be charitable with yourself. Give yourself another chance and determine to make good with it.

WORLD HAPPENINGS BRIEFLY TOLD

The fortune of the late Rudyard Kipling has been estimated at $750,000 (approximately $1,750,000) by The London Sunday Express.

Suggestions to renounce his claim to the Spanish throne were vigorously rejected by former King Alfonso, well-informed sources said.

The Japanese parliament was dissolved after a resolution of non-confidence in the government was introduced in the lower house. A general election has been called for Feb. 20.

One hundred and ninety-six persons received serum inoculations against diphtheria as a result of an outbreak of the disease at Wabamun, Alta.

Warships aggregating 110,500 tons are under construction in German shipyards, the naval monthly magazine Rundschau said in a survey of recent build building progress at the beginning of 1936.

The United Church still requires $380,000 to balance its accounts for this year, Dr. Robert Laird, general treasurer, told the Toronto centre presbytery. To date the church has received $1,280,000.

Tom-toms, throbbing throughout Africa, carried the news of King George's death to the most remote regions. Instances were reported in which the natives heard of the death before the whites learned it through newspapers and radio.

The Victorian branch of the Bill Posters' Union, of which King Edward is a member, sent a message of sympathy. It is believed His Majesty is the only monarch who has ever been a member of the trades union. (He is also a member of the International Pressmen's and Assistants' Union of Canada and the U.S.A.)

New Insulin Compound

British Columbia Salmon Aid in Struggle Against Diabetes

British Columbia salmon are aiding in the struggle against diabetes, Dr. Priscilla White of Boston, famed for her research in the fight against diabetes, told a distinguished gathering of scientists and doctors in Toronto.

An ingredient from salmon, combined with insulin, is used to produce the new protamine insulin, a compound developed by Dr. H. C. Hagedorn, of Copenhagen, and other Danish doctors, for treatment of diabetes. The new compound was announced this week by the journal of the American Medical Association.

Perils Of Antarctic Flying

Discover Great Ranges Of Lofly Mountains On Hazardous Journey

Lincoln Ellsworth, Antarctic explorer, in a copyright dispatch from aboard the motor ship Wyat Earp to the New York Times and the North American Newspaper Alliance, described the perils of the attempted flight across Antarctica by himself and Herbert Hollick-Kenyon, of Winnipeg.

Of Hollick-Kenyon, the despatch said he skillfully piloted the explorers' aeroplane the Polar Star, across Antarctica. They gazed with awe at great mountain ranges rising to a height of 12,000 feet, across which they flew before they were forced down near Little America.

When they landed on "the only unclaimed land in the world" on Nov. 23 last, Ellsworth reported he saved the United States flag, with the permission of the United States state department, and named the area, between Heart Land and Marie Byrd Land, James W. Ellsworth Land, after his father.

He added that he named the plateau on which they landed, about 6,000 feet above sea level, Hollick-Kenyon plateau.

King George Had Narrow Escape

Fell Into Halifax Harbor When He Was A Naval Midshipman

Death brushed elbows more than once with the future King George V. in his younger days as a naval midshipman in Halifax.

Once, a Halligonian plunged into the water to save him when he had fallen into Halifax harbor. Another time a youthful companion on an angling trip fished him out of Mill lake after he had fished the lumberman's log-rolling stunt too tricky for the royal feet.

Again, while he was in Halifax in the 80's as a midshipman on H.M.S. Canada, police broke up a suspected attempt to blow up the ship. Two men involved in the alleged plot were arrested and sent to jail.

J. J. Mulrooney received an engraved watch for the harbor rescue. And for many years after the incident he treasured a naval uniform which the then prince gave him to replace his own soddie clothes.

On the fishing trip Neil MacLean of Hubbards was the prince's companion. He did not know until long after that the youngster he pulled out of the lake was the prince.

Making School Attractive

New System Of Teaching Primary Grade Pupils

Farm women of Alberta learned of a new system of teaching primary grade pupils.

The system calls for pupil participation instead of pupil listening and has already been adopted in 60 Alberta schools.

Mrs. W. Ross, convener of the committee on education and Miss Mary Crawford, of Edmonton, explained the new method at the annual convention of the United Farm Women of Alberta.

Miss Crawford said children like to imitate the action of adults, and situations similar to real ones among adults must be presented in the classroom. She told of one class of seven and eight-year-olds who were busy playing house when she visited them in the school room.

"They were working in committees, making articles used in houses," she said. "When time came to go home they did not want to leave the classroom."

The British Commonwealth

Four Hundred And Ninety-Three Million People Call Edward VIII. King And Emperor

More than 493,000,000 people, scattered about the world over 13,900,782 square miles of British soil, will now call Edward VIII. king and emperor.

The British Commonwealth of nations grows like her rules—and upon which "the sun never sets"—comprises possessions on every continent and in every sea. Men of every race and every religion are his subjects.

Over all these except India he is king, and over the great eastern empire, with 353,000,000 people, speaking 300 languages, he is emperor.

New Map Of Canada

Department Of The Interior Issues Valuable Map Of Handy Size

The Topographical and Air Survey Bureau, Department of the Interior, Ottawa, has just issued a new map of Canada on the scale of 100 miles to one inch which will be found of interest to all the persons who have use for a small scale map of the Dominion.

The best map of Canada printed by the Department of the Interior is published on the scale of 35 miles to one inch in four separate sheets which, when joined together, cover a space about 4 1/2 feet by 8 1/2 feet, making an excellent wall map if one has such a space available. There is another map of intermediate size on the scale of 60 miles to one inch which is very convenient for desk use or as a small wall map.

The new map has been produced to meet the demand for a smaller map of handy size, useful for general reference purposes. It is 25 inches by 36 inches and fits into any large size drawer or a small space on the wall. This map shows all of Canada south of latitude 75, thus including all but some of the northern islands. All the larger physical features, such as lakes, rivers, and islands, are depicted in correct position. The boundaries of the provinces and districts are outlined. All cities and towns are shown and all the railways are drawn in, but without the intermediate small stations being named. The latitude and longitude lines are drawn and from them it may be seen that southern Ontario lies in the same latitude as Boston, while the southernmost tip of the Ontario peninsula is as far south as the northern end of the state of California.

According to the latest figures, the land and fresh water area of Canada, according to provinces and territories, is given in the following table:

	Square Miles
Prince Edward Island	2,184
Nova Scotia	21,088
New Brunswick	27,986
Quebec	594,534
Ontario	412,582
Manitoba	245,512
Saskatchewan	251,705
Alberta	255,285
British Columbia	369,255
Yukon Territory	207,078
Northwest Territories	1,309,682

Lake Superior is the largest lake shown on the map. It extends through Ontario and the United States. Of the lakes lying wholly within the Canadian territory, Great Bear Lake is the largest with an expanse of 11,660 square miles. Other large lakes include Great Slave, Winnipeg, Athabasca, Winnipegosis, Manitoba, Nipigon, Southern Indian, Reindeer, and Lake of the Woods.

Canada has some great river systems, the Mackenzie being 2,500 miles in length from its mouth to its headwaters, and the St. Lawrence 1,900 miles. Other great rivers over 1,000 miles in length include the Nelson, Saskatchewan, Churchill, Columbia, Peace and Yukon.

Mount Logan is the highest mountain in Canada, with an altitude of 19,850 feet. In addition to it there are 60 other mountain peaks above 11,000 feet in height.

Copies of this map may be obtained from the Surveyor General, Department of the Interior, Ottawa, for 25 cents per copy. As it is a useful school map, one copy will be supplied free to any school for official use, upon application of the teacher or school board.

Spoons Older Than Forks

Were Carried In Handsome Case During Middle Ages

In these civilized days it is difficult to realize that one of the first forks were our fingers and the earliest spoons the hollow of our hands.

The spoon is thought to be older than the knife and fork. According to the fashion of the Middle Ages it was carried in a case in the belt of the wearer, with other table tools. The cases were frequently as handsome as the spoons.

From the sixteenth century more cutlery sets were made. As in modern times, they were often given as presentation sets. Many fine old silver spoons are still prized as family heirlooms. The seal-top, the rat-tail, and the fiddle were three popular designs and the fiddle pattern is used to-day.

Unlike knife blades, the bowls of spoons were seldom etched or engraved.

Early spoons were of bone, ivory, and wood. Visitors to Holland and Switzerland will sometimes bring back delicately carved spoons and salad servers which are made by the peasants.

New Magazine

Will Publish Periodical To Assist Writers

The Writers' Club, Toronto, has announced its decision to publish a periodical entitled "Fiction," as a non-commercial venture by which it tends to discover writers and help the writers discover a market.

"The so-called formula type of story, for which there is already a commercial market, is not sought," says a statement from the club, "Fiction" will not pay for stories, but will vest the copyright for each contribution in the author. It will be circulated largely among editors.

E. J. O'Brien, compiler of short story anthologies, is announced as advisory editor of the new publication.

Means Luxury In China

Widow Of Chinese Market Gardener Gets $2,000 Estate

Pictureque details of a wedding performed 35 years ago in China—a wedding that lasted through four days of feasting, ancestor worshipping, and present giving—were unfolded in district court chambers at Edmonton, before Judge Crawford. Proof of the wedding was required before an order could be made granting the widow of a Chinese market gardener his estate valued at about $2,000. The order was granted.

The application on behalf of Wong Lee, 62-year-old widow of Charlie Mee Yee, who died in Edmonton in 1921 without a will, was presented by the Chinese consular-general for Canada, through J. T. J. Collison, K.C. Only two factors could nullify the marriage, the vows disclosed—death or leprosy.

By the court order the widow in China, 15 years after her husband died, will receive the money, held in trust by the provincial government during that time, which will place her in the lap of luxury in her native village.

Need More Food

Five Meals A Day Increases Factory Output

Angel cake and five meals a day may increase the productivity of factory operatives as much as 10 per cent. This is the discovery of two Yale University scientists, Dr. H. W. Haggard and L. A. Greenberg, as recorded in a book, "Diet and Physical Efficiency."

They have studied a group of persons who work in a shoe factory. It is found that eating five times a day tends to reduce industrial fatigue. The angel cake is in the picture because some of the subjects of the experiments might have declined the daily five if they had been denied this particular delicacy. The scientific mind sees more value in a glass of milk and a vegetable salad.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

FEBRUARY 2

JESUS' ENLISTS HELPERS

Golden text: They left all, and followed him. Luke 5:11.

Lesson: Luke 5.

Devotional reading: Isaiah 62:6-12.

Explanations And Comments

The Call of Peter, Luke 5:1-11. The western side of the Lake of Genesareth, or the Sea of Galilee, as it is better known to us, was densely populated in the first century. One day Jesus stood on the shore near where men who were his old acquaintances were fishing. "The lake, weeds and stones which they have brought up to the bottom of the mud, to escape from the thronging crowd about him, Jesus entered a fishing boat belonging to Simon Peter and asked him to push off a little distance from the land. Then sitting down he taught the people standing on the shore. "The clear, rippling water playing gently round the boat," comments Dr. Gellie, "the fields and vineyards and olive groves behind; the eager listeners with their varied and picturesque Eastern dress; the wondrous presence of the calm and delicious coolness of the morning, and, over all, the cloudless Syrian sky, must have made a scene striking in the extreme."

When he had finished his talk, Jesus turned to Simon and bade him launch out into the deep and let down his nets for a draught. In amazement Simon answered, "Master, we have toiled all night and have taken nothing." Success was wholly unlikely at that time of day and in deep water, he thought, for he was caught at night and near the shore.

"Nevertheless at thy word I will let down the net," Simon said. His partners, James and John (verse 10), had to be called to his aid, for his net was in danger of breaking from the weight of fish within it. Then in great fear and astonishment Simon fell at the feet of Jesus exclaiming "Drops from heaven for I am a sinful man, O Lord." "It was an act so wonderful and kindly that Peter saw, and seeing looked himself. Have we not all experienced that judgment—the silent judgment of some noble act? Nothing was said, but something fine was done, and seeing it so done, we were ashamed. In the acts of Jesus, all of them acts of love and acts of grace, there lay the power, in unequalled measure, of touching men with a strange self-reproach." (O. H. Morrison.)

The result of Simon's obedience was so great a haul that his partners, James and John (verse 10), had to be called to his aid, for his net was in danger of breaking from the weight of fish within it. Then in great fear and astonishment Simon fell at the feet of Jesus exclaiming "Drops from heaven for I am a sinful man, O Lord." ## FLEMING'S FOLLY

- BY - LAWRENCE A. KEATING

SYNOPSIS

The story opens with Link Fleming addressing a meeting of Boone County cattlemen, called together with the object of forming an irrigation company.

Roper Kilgo, the boss of the Rawhide and nearby ranges, who seemed to approve the plan, but was really opposed to it, had forced Soak Torney, a derrick mining engineer, whom Kilgo knew would be called upon to give his expert opinion in favor of the scheme, to reverse his earlier opinion, and declare that irrigation in Boone county so far as Hamilton's plan was concerned, was only a wasteful way to waste money.

The meeting terminates, but Buzz Hamilton and his sister, Helen, Link and Kilgo stay behind and Helen asks Fleming questions about his irrigation plan. This angers Buzz, who accuses Fleming of trying to influence his sister and, as he asserts, ruin his "spread". Buzz shoots at Fleming in an uncontrollable fit of anger, but Buster Townsend, Link's foreman, is in the stomach, and Fleming is uninjured. Buzz is arrested. The doctor attends Townsend and dresses his wound. Kilgo Roper suggests taking Helen to her home, but she refuses and Fleming escorts her home instead. This incident causes Roper to declare open hostility to Fleming.

Helen and Fleming form a partnership to provide irrigation for their own properties. Link goes home, and is surprised to find Kilgo there ahead of him. Kilgo tries to induce Link to drop his scheme, and when Fleming refuses, gives a signal by taking off his hat, and Link is shot at from outside the house.

Link kicks Kilgo out of the house. Buzz Hamilton is sentenced to three years imprisonment for shooting Bud Townsend.

(Now Go On With The Story)

As he rode down the curling road toward Iron Spring, Link gazed absently into the bleak swirl of blowing snow. The road was streaked with it but the fall was dry and light, insufficient to blind him. He gazed. A sharp wind was blowing down from the mountains, and the lone horseman buttoned his heavy corduroy jacket tighter over his chest. He was thinking of the dam and the plans he had talked over a score of times with Soak Torney, the engineer. In his mind's eye he envisioned the thing completed, a shining white concrete structure blocking a narrow point in Silver Creek. It need not be a big project to store up ditch water for twenty-a-hundred acres, his own and Triple H land. But its cost would be a heavy burden on the two modest spreads.

He would have to get in touch with someone to replace Torney. What had become of Soak anyhow? No one had seen him since the meeting; he seemed to have evaporated into thin air. Had he left the range? Link remembered a man who might carry on in Soak's place, Tom McLendon, a young engineer he had done a favor in a cafe brawl on the Border. He determined to write to Tom and propose his coming here to direct the job.

He began to whistle. The ears of his trotting mount twitched back, and the rider chuckled. The picture of the dam persisted in fading for another and perhaps more slurring of a young girl. She was dressed in riding trousers, a man's flannel shirt, Stetson, neckerchief and heavy buckskin jacket with a knit collar.

Soak stepped back a pace. His eyes were stealer now, glowing with determination. "He's a snake, Link. You'll sure be surprised! The guy that made me lie at that meetin', and—"

The crackle of a Winchester cut the crisp air. Fleming leaped back, plunging under his jacket for the Colt that rode there. Soak Torney threw up his hands and uttered a cry of pain and fear. His face was paper-white as he staggered, tripped, and pitched heavily full length in the road dust.

"It was... it was..."

The words died away in a thin whisper. Torney's slight frame twitched, then lay still. Link needed no closer inspection to tell him the man was dead.

CHAPTER VI.

Link whirled and plunged for the safety of the woods. He was in the nick of time, for the next instant the Winchester uttered its throaty roar again. The bullet gouged through the high crown of his anvil hat, lifting it from his head and carrying it some eight feet away. Another shot went wild.

With six-gun ready and every sense keenly alert, he started a roundabout way toward the approximate source of the shooting. Twenty yards covered failed to locate anyone, and he failed to listen. But his ears could detect no footfalls, and certainly he thought, sounds of a man moving over the hard-packed ground should carry to him.

After some reflection he continued the search always wary lest the unknown slayer of Torney fire another time. The patch of cottonwoods, roughly diamond in shape, bordered the cold flowing water of Iron Spring as it ran several hundred feet before disappearing underground in sandy loam.

Link stepped from cover, his Colt raised. "Don't move for your gun!"

A man on his knees beside the stream turned sharply. "Huh!" Jackpot Mell, owner of the Half Moon Saloon in Rawhide, rose to his full height. He scowled indignantly at the weapon pointed his way.

"What's the idea, Link? Gunnin' for somebody?"

They touched each other with the wary suspicion of two animals. "Where's your Winchester, Mell?"

The man shook his head. "Never carry one. It's too doggone much bother, and I always been pretty lucky with forty-fives. Say," he demanded curiously, "what's this all about, anyhow?"

"That Link had never seen Jackpot with a rifle that he could recall. The man's bone-handled sigxuns had accounted for seven victims over a period of as many years. Mell was a killer, nerveless, deliberate and wholly lacking in mercy. He had the reputation of being Kilgo's only confidant, also Roper's "law enforcement" ace. More than one individual who had crossed the Box 50 owner's path had, by some odd kind of fate, also angered Mell. The result was a shooting that had the appearance of being justified."

His draw was swifter than the eye could follow. In fact, it was a dry joke among Boone County citizens that "nobody ever saw Jackpot draw."

Could he have done this thing, killed Soak Torney? Fleming realized that he probably was not a good Winchester shot. Few bird marksmen were expert with rifles.

"What's the idea holdin' me here?" he snapped sourly. "I ain't got all day!"

"Didn't hear any shooting I suppose?"

Jackpot looked thoughtful. "Well, there was some noise a few minutes ago. But I didn't pay much attention; thought it was a branch snapin' out. Just watered my boss horse—"

"he indicated a sleek roan—" and stepped down to write myself. Yuh think I shot somebody?"

"Soak Torney was murdered as he and I were talking, and they took two shots at me but missed."

Jackpot smoothed a crease in his flowered vest before pulling it down over his wide fancy belt. His long-tailed blue coat was wetly heavy enough for the brisk weather, and he twitched his shoulders as if chilly. "Too bad!"

"Too bad he missed?"

"Aw, Link, what makes yuh think that? Seems like a powerful waste of lead for anyone to shoot Torney. He was drinkin' himself into a nice big grave anyhow."

Fleming, without boltering his gun, began to walk around the spot, glancing behind trees and into shrubs to determine whether Jackpot had a Winchester concealed there. "There was no rifle on the man's horse, nor any boot for one. If he had dropped it in the scant foliage nearby he should be able to find it. No other person was in sight.

The gambler watched, faintly amused and knowing what Link sought. "Have yourself the trouble, Link. I haven't a rifle along to-day. Here I'm takin' a peaceful drink of water and yuh charge in like Amos Stephen before election. Fine way to treat an old pal!" he complained ironically. "Why, if it wasn't for me yuh'd never have got that seventeen hundred score of no-good land. We took your cash that night, but I always believe in exchange to prevent squawkin'."

All Made By Hand

Firm in Glasgow Still Turning Out Clay Pipes

Time was when the working man did not think of smoking any kind of pipe except a "clay." Wooden pipes have become cheaper, the cigarette has helped to change smoking habits, and most pipe smokers would think it "cheap" to be seen with the old-fashioned clay. But in Glasgow there is a firm 130 years old, which still turns out 150,000 clay pipes a year, about 50,000 of these being exported to change apparently come to Canada, for a reporter who looked over the factory recently saw cases ready to ship to Montreal.

It is surprising to learn that there are 2,000 molds in this factory, each making a different pipe. The bowls can be made into all kinds of shapes, and the faces of prominent men of past and present generations, look out from the front of the bowl, such as Scott and Burns, Baldwin and Macdonald. What is still more surprising, the firm also make "churchwardens," these pipes with the 20-inch long stems seen in the mouths of the jolly fellows of Tudor times and later. The longer the stem the cooler the smoke. A lot of clays are baked brown through and through with a chemical so that one can hardly detect a clay from a briar. This may be a concession to the plebian chap who prefers a clay but does not like to advertise the fact that he is smoking one.

The trade, however, has fallen away greatly. The Glasgow firm employed 100 men before the World War, but now they employ a dozen. The period of apprenticeship used to be seven years; it is now shortened to one. Yet considerable dexterity is required to make clay pipes. They are all made by hand.—St. Thomas Times-Journal.

Germany's Air Force

Under Control Of World's Most Arm-minded Men

It has been openly stated in France that the German military strength is now three times that of France herself. That proportion is rapidly increasing in favor of Germany. She possesses an air arm not only the finest of its kind technically and of the greatest strength numerically, but an air force under the control of men more thoroughly arm-minded than any in the world. Like her opposite number in the Far East, Japan, Germany has expansionist aspirations; she has the means to fulfill them, and she has the will to apply those means.—London Sunday Dispatch.

People Are United

The difference between a dictatorship and a monarchy is illustrated by the following from the lips of His Late Majesty King George V, of Great Britain: "It is good to think that our own family of peoples is at peace in itself, and united in one desire to be at peace with other nations."

There are only 70 pure bred European born living today, of which 21 are in Poland.

Antique With A History

Old Oak Bucket Has Been Used For 150 Years

Many antiques have a history and here is one which has been in constant use for much more than 100 years. It is an old oak bucket flaked out of the Chippewa Creek at Calstar Centre, Ontario, by a pike pole in the days when it was the custom for people to fish out logs and wood during the spring freshets. This little barrel which is eight inches high and five inches across, as been used as a utensil for salting cattle for some 90 years. Later, when it fell into the hands of its present owner, Judson Merritt, of Watford, Ontario, it was taken to the house and better care taken of it, but still it was used as a salt container and never been idle since landing in this family some 150 years ago. Its original use was as an oyster barrel built for shipping oysters. It has been promised to be handed down to a niece, who lives near where it was found, at the passing of its present owner.

Hints For The Cook

Various Terms Signify Ways Of Combining Ingredients

There is considerable difference in the terms used to signify various ways of combining recipes. Stirring—is mixing with a spoon in a rotary motion in order to blend thoroughly. Beating—is mixing with a vigorous up and over motion using a spoon, wire whip or beater. It is a means of getting air into the mixture by lifting it from the bottom of the bowl to the top. Kneading—is a process of stretching and pressing doughs with the hands or a mechanical kneader.

Experiment To Be Conducted With Pears From Ontario

Pears from trees planted near Amersburg, Ontario, more than 200 years ago by French Jesuit priests have been sent to the University of Saskatchewan at Saskatoon for experimental and research purposes. Request for the fruit came from Dr. Patterson, professor of horticulture at the university, who desired some hardy fruits for the prairie provinces.

How Name Originated

Did you ever hear how airloin steak got its name? Well, it seems that King James I. of England had enjoyed a fine meal which had for its chief feature a rare piece of loin steak. As he finished eating, the king drew his sword and smiting what was left of the meat, said jestingly, "I dub thee Sir Loin." The name stuck.

Little Helps For This Week

Bless the Lord O my soul, and forget not all His benefits. Psalm 103:2.

Wiser, it were to welcome and make ours Whatever of good, though small, The present brings. Kind greetings, sunshine, song of birds, and flowers With a child's pure delight in little things.

Into all our lives, in many simple familiar homely ways, God infuses the element of joy from surprises of life which unexpectedly brighten our days and fill our eyes with light. He drops this added sweetness into His children's cup and makes it to run over. The success we were not counting on, the blessing we were not trying after, the strain of mere life, the kind of drudgery, the beautiful morning picture or sunset glory thrown in as we pass to or from our daily business, the unthought word of encouragement or expression of sympathy, the sentence that meant for us more than the words of a speaker thought; these and a hundred others that every one's experience can supply are instances. You may call it accident or chance; it often is; you may call it human goodness, which it often is, but always call it God's love, for the overflowing riches of His grace, these are His free gifts.

Head Gardener At Empress Hotel Has Ripe Tangerines

At the Empress Hotel recently, says the Victoria Times Colonist, visitors were surprised to see, outside the ballroom, a small tree laden with full-sized tangerines, ripe and temptingly ready for picking. F. A. Saunders, head gardener at the Empress, has been nursing the tree along for about sixteen years, and was exceedingly proud to be able at last to show his crop of 25 "juices." "The fruit is of the 'Mandarin,' or kid glove variety, imported from Japan in such quantities about this time of the year. The hotel management reports that happy patrons are now grown in the hothouses.

Jones' Taxi Destroyed By Fire

Harold Jones' new seven passenger Ford taxi, valued at $2,000, which he purchased recently was totally destroyed by fire at 10.30 p. m. Monday evening. Jones assistant was driving Bob Burns to the latter's home in Carbondale and going up a small hill near their destination the car stalled, the occupants getting out and walking to the house. The driver on returning noticed a red flare reflected on the windshield and upon opening the door, a small explosion occurred caused by an inrush of air. Flames quickly swept over the upholstery and the car was soon a roaring furnace. Help was quickly called and snow was thrown inside the car but to no avail. The wood panel on top of the car was burned from the bolts, paint blistered, glass windows melted and the spare tire blew out, due to the terrific heat. It is thought a short circuit beneath the dash board caused the conflagration. The car is insured.
